

IVAN ALLEN COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS GRADUATE STUDENT CONFERENCE

Each year, in association with the Career Research and Innovation Development Conference (CRIDC), which is sponsored by the Graduate Student Government Association, the Ivan Allen College Graduate Student Advisory Board sponsors a conference at the end of January.

CALL FOR PAPERS FOR PRESENTATION

Who can submit? Graduate students enrolled in Ivan Allen College Liberal Arts graduate courses are eligible to submit abstracts to present papers at the annual IAC graduate student conference in January.

Who can attend the conferences? All faculty, staff, and students at Georgia Tech and guests are welcome to attend.

What can be submitted? An Ivan Allen College Graduate Student may submit a poster abstract for the CRIDC conference, a paper for the Ivan Allen College Graduate Student Conference, or both.

Where do I submit an abstract for the CRIDC poster presentation? The conference usually takes place in early spring. Check the CRIDC website at: <http://sga.gatech.edu/g/cridc-2017/>. If the link is inactive, contact Graduate Student Government.

When are abstracts for IAC paper presentations due? Abstracts are usually due in early December. Graduate students can submit 200-250 word abstracts of presentations for the IAC Graduate Student conference to the same CRIDC website: <http://sga.gatech.edu/g/cridc-2017/>

When are full (15-page) papers competing for prizes due? Deadline: January 1

Between early December and January 1, graduate students enrolled in Ivan Allen College programs who have submitted abstracts can submit complete papers as pdf or Word attachments to the email address noted in the graduate student annual calendar: <http://www.iac.gatech.edu/students/graduate/calendar>. The maximum number of pages for each paper (including argument, notes, figures, and bibliography) is 15 pages. Papers submitted by January 1 will be evaluated by Ivan Allen College faculty judges.

What is the format for the late January Ivan Allen College Graduate Student Conference?

Presentations (based on abstracts submitted in early December), will be scheduled as papers on panels OR as roundtable presentations during the January conference. The Ivan Allen Graduate Student Advisory Board members will review abstracts and organize the schedule for the conference. Graduate students can volunteer as session chairs and/or respondents to carol.colatrella@lmc.gatech.edu. Presenters who have professional obligations that prevent their attendance may be able to videotape their papers in advance for showing at the conference.

When is the CRIDC Awards Ceremony? Authors of the top three papers submitted by January 1 and presented in late January will each receive up to $1500 in travel funds, which will be awarded by Dean Jacqueline Royster, Ivan Allen College of Liberal Arts, at the CRIDC awards ceremony in early spring.

Questions? Carol Colatrella: carol.colatrella@lmc.gatech.edu