The Ivan Allen Jr. Prize for Social Courage

On March 15, 2011, Georgia Tech will make the inaugural presentation of the Ivan Allen Jr. Prize for Social Courage. The prize is awarded in honor of Ivan Allen Jr., who was a pivotal leader during America’s struggle for racial integration during the 1960s. As mayor of Atlanta, Ivan Allen Jr. was steadfast and courageous in advancing the public accommodation for African Americans. Ultimately, he risked his place in society, his political future, and his life to testify before Congress in support of what became the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Georgia Tech is privileged to illuminate the legacy of this great man. The Ivan Allen Jr. Prize for Social Courage is the Institute’s preeminent award. Underscoring the Institute’s mission to advance the human condition, the Prize recognizes those around the globe who, by standing up for moral principle, have made a positive difference at the risk of their own careers, their livelihoods, and even their lives.

The inaugural recipient of the Allen Prize is one of the nation’s most respected and visionary leaders on national defense, security, and nuclear non-proliferation: the Honorable Sam Nunn. For nearly a quarter of a century as a U.S. Senator from Georgia and for a decade as the leader of the influential Nuclear Threat Initiative, Sam Nunn has helped our nation navigate toward a more peaceful, secure, and prosperous future. His recent work with former U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz, former U.S. Secretary of Defense William Perry, and former U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has galvanized global support for and action on the vision of a world free of nuclear weapons and the urgent steps needed to reach that goal. Like Mayor Allen, Senator Nunn’s civic vision, social courage, and ethical leadership is advancing us toward a more just and humane world.

“All of the great leaders have had one characteristic in common: it was the willingness to confront unequivocally the major anxiety of their people in their time.”

—John Kenneth Galbraith
The Allen Prize Symposium: Global Challenges, Courage, Leadership

The Allen Prize Symposium brings to the Georgia Tech community an opportunity to consider the grand challenges facing our world, to illuminate the trends that are shaping our future, and to engage with a cadre of leaders who are making measurable progress toward a vision of peace and security. The program invites participants to think through and beyond current challenges to consider how we as individuals can lead with courage and commitment and take concrete steps toward positive change.

The springboard for the symposium is Seven Revolutions, a presentation developed by one of the world’s preeminent international policy institutions, the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) in Washington, D.C., of which Senator Nunn is chairman of the Board of Trustees. The Seven Revolutions project identifies and analyzes the key policy challenges that policymakers, business figures, and other leaders will face through the year 2025 with a goal of promoting strategic thinking about long-term trends.

The strategic insights from the presentation will form the basis for discussions with some of our nation’s most influential and successful policy leaders and decision makers in government, international institutions, the private sector, and civil society. Insights will range from progress in stemming the threat of global nuclear destruction to the successes of global and community-based nonprofit volunteer organizations.

The 2011 Allen Prize Symposium has been shaped by the vision of Senator Nunn with a goal of presenting the opportunities and risks, tools, policies, and actions needed to transform the status quo to a new way to live and interact as global citizens. It is a call to think seriously about the events that are over the horizon and to embrace social courage and ethical leadership to shape a peaceful and secure world.

Charles B. Curtis
President Emeritus, Nuclear Threat Initiative

Mr. Curtis is a senior advisor to the Center for Strategic and International Studies and President Emeritus of the Nuclear Threat Initiative, a charitable organization engaged in national security issues.

Mr. Curtis served as Under Secretary and later Deputy Secretary of Energy and Acting Secretary from 1994 to 1997. He was the chief operating officer of the department and had direct programmatic responsibility for all department science, technology, and national security programs, among other duties. He was the department’s designated member of the Nuclear Weapons Council throughout his tenure.

Mr. Curtis has held positions on the staff of the U.S. House of Representatives and with the U.S. Treasury, the Securities Exchange Commission, and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission which he chaired from 1977 to 1981. He is a former member of the Department of Defense’s Policy Board, the congressionally appointed Commission on Maintaining United States Nuclear Weapons Expertise, and the Council on Foreign Relations Independent Task Force on U.S. Policy toward the Korean Peninsula. He is a current member of the Council on Foreign Relations, the 2010 Quadrennial Defense Review Panel, and is the Vice Chair of the Threat Reduction Advisory Committee to the Secretary of Defense.

Mr. Curtis is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts Amherst and the Boston University Law School.

Thomas W. Dortch, Jr.
Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, TWD, Inc.

Thomas W. Dortch Jr. is currently the chairman and CEO of TWD, Inc., a consulting firm specializing in business development. Mr. Dortch, who has spent his entire career dedicated to public service, began working with U.S. Senator Sam Nunn in 1978. From 1990 to 1994, Mr. Dortch served as Senator Nunn’s state director, becoming the first African American to serve a U.S. senator in this capacity.

Mr. Dortch also played a vital role in the development of 100 Black Men of America, Inc., of which he was elected the third national president in 1994. Mr. Dortch’s other positions and accomplishments include: president of South West Investment Group (SWIG); chief executive officer of Atlanta Transportation Systems, Inc.; chairman and CEO of Cornerstone Parking; Chairman of Lancor Parking Management, LLC; managing partner of FAD Consulting, LLC; founder of the National Black College Alumni Hall of Fame Foundation, Inc.; co-founder of the Georgia Association of Minority Entrepreneurs (GAME); and co-founder of the Greater Atlanta Economic Alliance.

Mr. Dortch has been the recipient of numerous awards and honors. Mr. Dortch has served on the boards of Leadership Atlanta, Grady Memorial Hospital, Friendship Force International, the Atlanta Business League, and is currently the Chairman of the Fulton/Dekalb County Hospital Authority Board of Trustees.

Mr. Dortch earned a BA in sociology and pre-professional social work from Fort Valley State University in 1972, and an MA in criminal justice administration from Clark-Atlanta University in 1986. He also attended Georgia State University as a Ford Fellow in the Urban Administration Program.
Ambassador Gordon D. Giffin is a senior partner with the international law firm McKenna Long & Aldridge, where he is chair of the Public Policy and International Department. His practice is focused on international transactions, trade matters and disputes, energy and communications regulatory matters, and public policy issues. He is a graduate of Duke University and Emory University School of Law. Ambassador Giffin has served in the federal government on two occasions, as legislative director and chief counsel to U.S. Senator Sam Nunn (1975-1979) and as the 19th U.S. ambassador to Canada (1997-2001).

Currently, Ambassador Giffin serves on several public company boards of directors, including the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Canadian National Railway, Canadian Natural Resources, and TransAlta. He is a trustee of the Carter Center in Atlanta, a member of the Board of the U.S.-Canada Fulbright Foundation, and on the Board of Advisors of McLarty Global Associates.

Eleanor Hill
Partner, King & Spalding

As a partner at King & Spalding, Eleanor Hill focuses on congressional, inspector general, and internal investigations and legislative, compliance, and homeland security matters. Ms. Hill has extensive investigative experience. As staff director for the Joint Congressional Inquiry on the September 11th Attacks, she led the bipartisan House and Senate investigation that uncovered critical missed opportunities in U.S. intelligence efforts. As staff director and chief counsel of the Senate’s Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, she worked closely with then Chairman Sam Nunn on numerous investigations and legislative efforts. She also served as Senator Nunn’s counsel during his service in the House and Senate Iran-Contra Investigation.

As inspector general for the Department of Defense, Ms. Hill also led audits and investigations covering defense and military department operations. She was co-chair of both the President’s Council on Integrity and Efficiency and the Intelligence Community IG Forum, and served on the attorney general’s Council on White Collar Crime. She was awarded Distinguished Service medals by both Secretary William Perry and Secretary William Cohen.

Ms. Hill is also an experienced federal prosecutor and trial lawyer, having been an assistant United States attorney and a special attorney with the Justice Department’s Organized Crime Strike Force. Ms. Hill has testified before Congress and is a frequent speaker on investigative and intelligence issues. She was recently named co-chair of the Constitution Project’s Task Force on Detainee Treatment. She is a Phi Beta Kappa, magna cum laude graduate of both Florida State University and the Florida State University College of Law.

Robert H. Hurt
Principal, Hurt, Norton & Associates, Inc.

Mr. Hurt was Washington bureau chief of The Atlanta Journal Constitution before entering public service as a congressional staff assistant. He was a volunteer in the 1972 Senate campaign of Sam Nunn and then served as chief of staff to former U.S. Rep. Bo Ginn and U.S. Rep. Lindsay Thomas before becoming staff director of Senator Nunn’s personal offices in Washington and Georgia in 1992—a position he held until the Senator’s retirement in 1997.

A native of Atlanta, Mr. Hurt holds a BA from Mercer University and an MA from the George Washington University. He is a Vietnam veteran, having served as an infantry and military intelligence officer with the 173rd Airborne Brigade and 5th Special Forces.

Henry A. Kissinger
Chairman, Kissinger Associates, Inc.

Henry A. Kissinger was the 56th U.S. Secretary of State from 1973 until 1977. He also served as assistant to the president for national security affairs from 1969 until 1975. In July 1983, he was appointed by President Ronald Reagan to chair the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America until it ceased operation in January 1985, and from 1984 to 1990, he served as a member of the President’s Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board. From 1986 to 1988, he was a member of the Commission on Integrated Long-Term Strategy of the National Security Council and Defense Department. He has served as a member of the Defense Policy Board since 2001.

At present, Dr. Kissinger is chairman of Kissinger Associates, Inc., an international consulting firm. He serves on numerous boards and advisory posts. He is a member of the International Council of J.P. Morgan Chase & Co., a counselor to and trustee of the Center for Strategic and International Studies, an honorary governor of the Foreign Policy Association, and an honor member of the International Olympic Committee.
Among the awards Dr. Kissinger has received are the Nobel Peace Prize (1973); the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation’s highest civilian award (1977); and the Medal of Liberty, given once to ten foreign-born American leaders (1986).

Born in Fuerth, Germany, Dr. Kissinger was naturalized a U.S. citizen in 1943. He served in the U.S. Army from 1943 to 1946. He graduated from Harvard College in 1950 and received MA and PhD degrees from Harvard University in 1952 and 1954.

Michelle Nunn

Chief Executive Officer, Points of Light Institute

Co-Founder, HandsOn Network

Michelle Nunn is the CEO of Points of Light Institute, which inspires, equips, and mobilizes people to take action that changes the world and operates three business units: HandsOn Network, MissionFish, and the Civic Incubator.

Ms. Nunn began her career as the founding director of Hands On Atlanta. Under her leadership, the organization grew from a grassroots startup in 1989 to one of the nation’s largest, community-based volunteer organizations. She became president and CEO of HandsOn Network and in 2007, took the helm of the combined Points of Light and HandsOn Network, which is now the nation’s largest volunteer organization and completes close to 25,000 monthly projects.

Ms. Nunn graduated from the University of Virginia in 1989 with a major in history and a minor in religion. She has studied at Oxford University and in India. She was a Kellogg National Fellow and has an MA in public administration from the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University.

Ms. Nunn is a co-convener of the Service Nation Coalition and Re-Imagining Service and serves as a board member of All for Good. She has received a variety of awards.

Sam Nunn

Co-Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Nuclear Threat Initiative

Distinguished Professor, Sam Nunn School of International Affairs, Georgia Institute of Technology

Sam Nunn is co-chairman and chief executive officer of the Nuclear Threat Initiative (NTI), a charitable organization working to reduce the global threats from nuclear, biological, and chemical weapons. He served as a U.S. Senator from Georgia for twenty-four years (1972-1996) and is retired from the law firm of King & Spalding.

In addition to his work with NTI, Senator Nunn has continued his service in the public policy arena as a distinguished professor in The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs at Georgia Tech and as chairman of the board of the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) in Washington, D.C.

During his tenure in the U.S. Senate, Nunn served as chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. He also served on the Intelligence and Small Business Committees. His legislative achievements include the landmark Department of Defense Reorganization Act, drafted with the late Senator Barry Goldwater, and the Nunn-Lugar Cooperative Threat Reduction Program, which provides assistance to Russia and the former Soviet republics for securing and destroying their excess nuclear, biological, and chemical weapons.

In addition to his work with NTI and CSIS, Nunn is co-chair of the Euro-Atlantic Security Initiative (EASI), an international commission sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace aimed at identifying the challenges and opportunities for strengthening cooperation in Euro-Atlantic security.

Nunn attended Georgia Tech, Emory University, and Emory Law School, where he graduated with honors in 1962. After serving in the U.S. Coast Guard, he spent six years in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve. He first entered politics as a member of the Georgia House of Representatives in 1968.

Dr. William J. Perry

Senior Fellow, Hoover Institution and Michael and Barbara Berberian Professor, Stanford University

Dr. William J. Perry currently serves as the Michael and Barbara Berberian Professor at Stanford University, with a joint appointment in the School of Engineering and the Institute for International Studies. He is also a Senior Fellow at the Hoover Institution and co-director of the Preventive Defense Project, a research collaboration of Stanford and Harvard Universities.

Dr. Perry was the 19th Secretary of Defense for the United States, serving from February 1994 to January 1997. As Secretary of Defense, he was instrumental in implementing and strengthening the Nunn-Lugar Cooperative Threat Reduction Program. He also served as Deputy Secretary of Defense (1993-1994) and Under Deputy Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering.

Dr. Perry has extensive business experience, currently serves on the boards of several high-tech companies, and is Chairman of Global Technology Partners. He is a member of the National Academy of Engineering and a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Perry has received numerous awards and decorations from U.S. and foreign governments, nongovernmental organizations, and the military, including the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1997.
Arnold Punaro is chief executive officer of the Punaro Group, LLC, a Washington-based firm offering government relations, strategic planning, and federal budget and market analysis.

As a former executive vice president at Science Applications International Corporation (SAIC), he was responsible for SAIC’s government affairs, worldwide communications, and support operations, as well as managing their Washington operations. Punaro recently chaired a Defense Business Board task force for Secretary of Defense Gates on reducing (DoD) overhead. He chaired the statutory Commission on the National Guard and Reserves.

From 1973 to 1997, he worked for U.S. Senator Sam Nunn serving as his staff director of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He was involved in the formulation of all major defense and intelligence legislation and the oversight and review of all major defense and intelligence activities for over two decades.

He holds an MA from both the University of Georgia and Georgetown University. A retired U.S. Marine Corps major general, he served as the commanding general of the 4th Marine Division. He served on active duty as an infantry platoon commander in Vietnam, where he was awarded the Bronze Star for valor and the Purple Heart.

Punaro is the recipient of the Secretary of Defense Medal for Exceptional Public Service. He has over twenty military awards and decorations that include the Distinguished Service Medal.

Bob Schieffer
CBS News Chief Washington Correspondent and Moderator of Face the Nation

2011 marks Schieffer’s 54th year as a reporter and his 42nd year at CBS News. He is one of the few broadcast or print journalists to have covered all four major beats in the nation’s capital—the White House, the Pentagon, the State Department, and Capitol Hill. He has been a principal anchor for CBS News since 1973.

Schieffer anchored the CBS Evening News from March 2005 to August 2006, an eighteen-month period that saw a substantial increase in viewers. Schieffer has served as the moderator of Face the Nation, CBS News’ Sunday public affairs broadcast, since 1991. He is also CBS News’ chief Washington correspondent, a post he has held since 1982.

Before joining CBS News, he was a reporter at the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and, in 1965, became the first reporter from a Texas newspaper to report from Vietnam. Schieffer later became news anchor at WBAP-TV Dallas/Fort Worth, a post that eventually led to his joining CBS News.

Schieffer has received virtually every award in broadcast journalism, but feels the greatest honor was bestowed upon him in 2005 when his alma mater, Texas Christian University, created the Schieffer School of Journalism.
